New Certificate

CADD/CAM

This one year certificate prepares the learner for a position where the CADD tool is utilized to generate output for advanced manufacturing operations. These applications are often found in computer numerical control (CNC) and other applications where the CADD mathematical data is translated into digital output for manufacturing operations. The focus of this certificate is the skill set that employs fundamental skills in both the CADD and CAM areas. The learner that completes this certificate can utilize the skills and credits obtained as the basis for completing the CADD and Design AAS.
