Thursday, Oct. 15
The nomination deadline for family or friends to receive the most prestigious MCC award is June 1. Nomination forms are online at www.mcc.edu or can be obtained by calling 810.762.0425. Nearly 30 people have been recognized since the program was created in 2002, including Judges Thomas C. Yeotis and Paul Gadola, and Academy Award-Winning Producer Kathleen Glynn. Help us celebrate your loved ones success by nominating them for our most prestigious award. Recipients will be honored Oct. 15 at Applewood.

BALLenger LECTURE SERIES FALL KICKOFF

The exciting field of Nanotechnology will be the focus of the upcoming Ballenger Lecture Series. There has been much debate on the future implications of nanotechnology. It has the potential to create many new materials and devices with wide-ranging applications in medicine, electronics, and energy production. It also raises issues about the toxicity and environmental impact of nanomaterials, their potential effects on global economics, and creates various doomsday scenarios. All aspects have led to a debate among advocacy groups and governments on whether special regulations and regulation of nanotechnology is warranted. The date of the September presentation will be announced. 810.762.0425.

THE ECONOMY & ENDOWMENTS

MCC is not unlike colleges and universities experiencing declining endowment values in the nation's stock market. With an average 20 percent drop in values, all educational institutions are looking for effective ways of making up for the losses. While MCC is not as bad as many other colleges in and outside the area, more than half of the 60 endowments set up at MCC's Foundation — which offers a total of nearly $180 million in sources — are currently unable to fund the intended scholarships and grants. Officials have begun meeting with donors to ask for additional help so that students can continue to accept the necessary funding for their academic programs.

Even though the Foundation saw its endowments lose about 20 percent from last year, the loss since January is down just 8 percent, faring better than other community colleges. Currently, there are several options on the table among community colleges, including reducing pay-outs to 2 percent of earnings instead of 4 percent.

IRA ROLLOVER

The IRA Charitable Rollover has been renewed and extended to December 31, 2009. This provision offers a wonderful way to support scholarships, research or other MCC programs that are important to you.

About the legislation:
• Exclusively for donors who are 70 1/2 or older
• It’s a simple, one-step distribution from your IRA to the University
• Charitable IRA distributions are limited to a total of $100,000 per year

The gift counts toward your required minimum distribution for the current tax year.
Your taxable income is not affected, because no taxes are due on the distribution.
You can still make a 2009 gift.

To ensure that you don’t miss this limited-time opportunity and to find out more, please email Lennetta.Coney@MCC.edu or call 810.762.0425.

GIVING TO MCC COULDN'T BE EASIER...OR MORE IMPORTANT!

All financial contributions are more necessary than ever to sustain scholarship funds and academic programs. Lack of available funds to pay for college is an increasing challenge for all students. We take seriously our obligation to help our students in every way we can. FMCC is constantly seeking ways to help students achieve academic success without increasing their financial burdens with higher tuition and book fees. It is our hope you will help us help the students of Mott Community College. Your financial support is more important than ever! We ask that you consider providing a financial gift or make a pledge to the Foundation for Mott Community College. Giving to the college has never been easier or more convenient. You can make an outright gift or you may be billed according to your wishes. Checks can be made payable to “The Foundation for Mott Community College” Visa, MasterCard, Discover and American Express are accepted. An online Donation Form can be found at www.mcc.edu.
