

Special Edition: Coronavirus Communication 61

June 12, 2020

Good Evening Everyone:

The campus was abuzz today. We had the Red Cross accepting blood donations in the Event Center and COVID-19 testing sponsored by Kroger is taking place in Parking Lot S. Mott Middle College was also on campus picking up their books for the fall term. It was a beautiful day, but I did not get to enjoy it because I spent the morning in Zoom meetings with members from the MCC Reopening Task Group sharing the draft plan to employees and students.

I appreciate all of the MCC Reopening Task Group members who presented this morning. Their insight was very helpful to help translate all the work that went into coming up with an exceptional plan. Presenters were:

- Kevin Asman, Dean, Humanities Division
- Michael Becker, Coordinator, Public Safety Health Services
- Heidi Clippard, Nursing Faculty, Health Sciences
- Connie DeSimpelare, Support Staff Specialist, Fine Arts and Social Sciences Division
- Alexandria Dowdall, Student Life Coordinator
- Joshua Dugas, Peer Tutoring Coordinator, Academic Affairs
- Sheila Grennay, Systems Administrator, ITS Computing Services - Networking
- Keith Jacobson, History Faculty, Fine Arts and Social Sciences Division
- Cheryl Nienaber, Nursing Faculty, Health Sciences
- Jill Sodt, Director, Library Services
- Chad Stirrett, Executive Director, Facilities Services

For those who did not have the opportunity to attend one of the sessions, I have included the link to yesterday's meeting. I have also attached the MCC Reopening Plan documents that were presented the past two days for further review. Please review and share any questions, thoughts, and/or concerns by close of business, Wednesday, June 17.

This afternoon the Executive Cabinet met to make reductions to the proposed 2020-2021 budget. We believe the decisions made will keep MCC fiscally sound. More fiscal direction will be shared with the College next week.

Looking Forward,
